

Behavioral health is in flux because of the upheaval and uncertainties in the larger healthcare environment. The danger is that some of the recent gains in behavioral health may be undermined if not lost. The challenge for the field is how to build on its successes as changes occur in funding and insurance, clinical and care models, workforce, and the emergence of new technologies. Come join us at our 58th Annual Conference to discuss this issue and more.

2:15 – 3:00pm Trauma Informed Approach
In April of 2015, there was civil unrest in Baltimore City. These events were the result of major tension between the police and the community. A decision was made by the health department through the mayor's office to advance Baltimore to being trauma informed to facilitate the healing of the community. Hear how this was done.

Brian Simms, MD, NASMHPD

3:15 – 4:00pm Integration of Medical and Behavioral Healthcare
What environmental, policy and funding issues are likely to impact this treatment model and what needs to happen to assure that individuals have access to integrated medical and behavioral healthcare?
Gina Lasky, PhD, Health Management Associates

4:00 – 4:30pm Dialogue with speakers

4:45 – 6:00pm Reception

Tuesday, October 24, 2017

8:45 – 9:30am Changes in the Model-Intercept Zero
The criminal justice system consistently encounters individuals with mental illnesses at each stage (police, courts, and corrections). The Intercept model has the long-term goal of reducing contact and involvement in the criminal justice system among people with mental illnesses. How might this model work for you?
Ron Manderscheid, PhD, NACBHDD

9:30 – 10:15am Dealing with Complex Behaviors
In the emerging changes that are being envisioned to the broader healthcare system, a major concern is the individuals with complex behaviors-both adults and children-are likely to bear the brunt disproportionately. What models and best practices can ensure optimal outcomes in a managed care environment?
Leslie Schwalbe, MPA, Optum; Larry Goldman, DMD, Beacon Health Options

10:30 – 11:15am Role of Peers
Trained peer specialists, through their "lived experiences" are thought to contribute to the rehabilitation and recovery of individuals receiving behavioral health services. How best can peer specialists continue to contribute and thrive in this constantly changing healthcare environment?
TBD

11:15 – 11:45am Tying the Models Together
Ron Manderscheid, PhD, NACBHDD; Brian Hepburn, MD, NASMHPD

11:45 – 1:30pm LUNCH

1:30 – 2:30pm Workforce
The broad scope of the services and people associated with behavioral health workforces can be daunting when providing and assessing adequate care. What are the components of a good behavioral health workforce?
Stephen Phillippi, PhD, LSU; Dennis Mohatt, MA, WICHE

2:45 – 4:00pm Use of Technology & BH Internet Services
Technological advancements in supportive mobile technologies, collaborative care models, and cross training has provided insights into what forms effective workforces. What opportunities do you have to maximize the use of technological advancements to improve access to, provision of, and outcomes for, behavioral health services?
Jody Bechtold, LCSW, Quartet; Zereana Jess-Huff, PhD

4:00 – 4:30pm Dialogue with speakers

Wednesday, October 25, 2017

8:45 – 11:00am Value Based Purchasing
Access, utilization and cost of behavioral health services continues to increase over time. Individuals with behavioral health disorders are utilizing significant amounts of healthcare services, and are relying on expensive and innovative treatments and pharmaceuticals. What are the best practices in financing, and how can these be adapted or used in the emerging healthcare environment?
Leslie Schwalbe, MPA, Optum; Larry Goldman, DMD, Beacon Health Options; Ted Lutterman, NRI

11:00 – 11:30am Dialogues with speakers
